

FCC Commissioners
The Federal Communications Commission RE: Docket 04-435
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear FCC Commissioners ,

I understand the FCC is considering a proposal to relax the restrictions on the use of cell phones on airplanes in flight. I do not think this is a good idea.

I have not seen enough evidence that proves the use would not interfere with onboard systems. One of the points for usage was to enable people to contact someone on the ground in an emergency such as highjacking the plane. I don't think anyone is going to worry about rules if they get a chance to call for help and let someone know about the situation. Bottom line, if I need help, I don't need permission.

Personally, I don't think the world needs another place for people to show their lack of manners and consideration for their fellow passengers. I have to dodge them on the road, can't avoid hearing them yak about whatever in the grocery, theater, restaurant etc.

Please leave the current rules in effect.

Sincerely,

D Smith
